

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention calculates a difference between present sampling data and sampling data 1 data unit ahead, cumulatively adds up difference values calculated for every sampling by going back to the time point ahead by the number of samples of a CP signal inserted into an initializing signal and confirms the position of the CP signal from the sample number for which this cumulative value indicates a minimum value.